Step 07

Now it's time to put some color behind your B&W image. I have used a texture I painted earlier and that I use as a base for all my dungeon assets, but really, using a rough, big brush to blot out some color or another low contrast texture will work. (low contrast is important!!!)

Set the blending mode of your B&W texture to overlay.

You can now also duplicate your B&W texture and run a color adjustment over it to color highlights yellow and shadows to blue. Set this to Soft Light blending mode and tone down opacity until it's barely noticeable. This gives you a nice subtle hue gradient.
